Hi, I'm just starting to build a small noob base in the system I started the game out on and I'm confused as to how to power it properly. I would really appreciate any help. I understand that the biofuel reactor is used to provide power by burning carbon and the solar panels plus a battery to charge can work as another source. What I'm confused about is the ...

So, I finally decided to start powering my base. To start simple, I built a single Solar Panel. During the day, it's generating 50kPs. I decided to wire it to a Cuboid Room containing a single Battery. The Battery failed to charge. Here's what I get when I examine my Solar Panel: Grid Power Usage: 95kP Used / 50kP Available Obviously, something else is ...

With the way your base is wired the Solar Panel is providing power to the base and the battery separately; it's enough to charge the battery but not enough to power the base. The battery needs a direct connection to the base itself in order for it to contribute power, but even then you may need additional batteries and solar panels to power a base that big.
